“Over the millions of years of human history, it was only 10,000 years ago that people began eating three square meals a day,” Jung wrote.